Round 0 – Abstract Submission

The project addresses the growing issue of social media addiction and its impact on focus, productivity, and mental health. With increasing screen dependency among students and professionals, there is a pressing need to promote mindful digital usage and balanced online habits.

To tackle this, the project proposes a platform that guides users through their digital detox journey with engaging challenges, awareness resources, and progress tracking tools. It also acts as an educational hub, providing verified and productive content such as study tips, skill-building material, and time management ideas. Each creator must cite reliable sources, ensuring credibility and responsible information sharing.

The platform's clean and distraction-free interface motivates users to use technology consciously, improving focus, emotional well-being, and sleep quality. By transforming online engagement into a tool for personal growth, the project aims to create a lasting shift toward digital balance and healthier screen habits.
